Hocking Valley Expects To Begin Laying New Steel About Feb. 1

Unloading of new 130-pound rail which will replace a section of the present 100-pound steel on the main track of the Hocking Valley from Marion north is under way. Laying of the rail is expected to start about Feb. 1. Another section of rail is being unloaded north of Delaware and also will be laid later in the season. Announcement of the plans for the new rails were made a few days ago by Supervisor F. A. Sparks of this district of the Hocking Valley. It is the first work of its kind to take place on the Hocking in this neighborhood this year.

The large number of locomotives and coal trains operating through Marion over the Hocking Valley necessitates heavier rails.

Latent Projects

The latest improvements on the Hocking Valley in this district were the construction of a new two-mile water line extending along the tracks from the Garden City park to Bellefontaine, and the erection of a new 100,000 gallon steel water tank near Bellefontaine. The task at this point, fed with water through the new line leading from the Garden City park, is in speeding up traffic through Marion. This improvement was also necessary because of increased freight traffic.

The district over which Mr. Sparks is supervisor is one of the leaders in construction work on the Hocking Valley road.

Pictures In Magazine

A photograph of Supervisor F. A. Sparks of the Hocking Valley in this district and John Hughes, road accountant, of Columbus, appears in the current issue of the Hocking Valley Railroad Magazine.

The picture was taken in front of the office of Mr. Sparks in the local yards.

Trains On Time

Passenger trains through Marion continue to operate on schedule time regardless of weather conditions.

Conditions Good

Freight cars owned by Class A railroads of the United States were in the best physical condition on Jan. 1 ever reported, according to the Car Service

Division of the American Railway Association. On that date, fewer freight cars were in need of repair than ever before at any season of the year. Only 5.7 per cent of the number on the lines of this country were in the shops for repair.

Rail Briefs

O. L. Enos, division passenger agent, Kent Division, Erie Railroad, was in Marion yesterday.

Another special train carrying a large group of Menominee from Canadian points to New York, where they will embark for South America, operated over the Erie through Marion yesterday.

TWO NEW CLASSES

Two new classes have begun at Central High School this week. They are the Junior Business Training class and the Civics class. These are half term subjects for ninth grade pupils, which the student must have before advancing to Harding High School.

COURTESY AID TO PROBLEM OF TRAFFIC, CLAIM

Auto Club Secretary Says Proper Signals Will Help Motorists

Highway courtesy in its simplest form provides one of the most effective ways of facilitating the smoother flow of traffic in the opinion of Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto Club.

What is the simplest form of highway courtesy? According to Mrs. Gallagher it consists in giving precise and intelligible signals to indicate clearly every intended change of course while driving, whether it is to be a right turn, left turn, a complete turnabout, or a full stop. On this point she says:

"One of the fundamentals of traffic safety is the signal system devised so that one driver may apprise all others of his intentions. To reduce the number of accidents on American streets and highways, it is essential that each driver in our 100 per cent attention to this fundamental."

"Inquiries conducted by the American Automobile Association, of which this club is a member, indicate that many drivers do not consider the giving of signals primarily as a mark of courtesy. Certain individuals admit that while they try always to give them, self-protection in their real motive. They were frank to confess that they never had considered the matter from the courtesy angle."

"It might be helpful for each driver to do a bit of introspection to determine just what motivates him when he puts his arm over the side of the car."

"Certainly, the situation would be improved if signaling could be made totally unselfish. If each driver could be the impulse behind it. This applies particularly to stopping. Abrupt, unsignaled stops have been the cause of innumerable traffic mishaps. The number could be greatly reduced if each driver were conscious of his responsibility to all other street users as well as to himself."

Why Not Go to Church?

BY REV. U. S. DAVIS, D. D.
Pastor Trinity Baptist Church

RECENTLY I was asked this question: "Would you go to church if not a minister? I think I would. I went to church before I was a minister. I am a minister as a result of that church-going."

The longer I am in the church, the more I realize its worth and value. I have asked many non-church goers why they did not attend church. Not one said that he did not believe the doctrine of the church. Not one was troubled with infidel notions. All acknowledged the importance of the church, and that they ought to go to church.

I have watched the influence of church-going on the lives of the individuals. I have found those who were active in some church among the best people of the community. I have discovered that I rate people higher and better in character, if they go to church. I do this unconsciously, and I have seldom been disappointed.

I have noticed that business men are more ready to employ a young man who is a regular attendant at church, that homes open their doors to the person that goes to church. Membership in a church is a recommendation of moral character. Church membership indicates the ideals of the individual. Those ideals are the crystallizations of the teachings he received in the church. These become the convictions by which he orders his life. So that if you put that man in the home he is a better parent. Put him in business—he is honest. Put him in politics—his vote is on the right side of every moral question. Put him in the city—he is a good citizen.

It is said that decent people go to church, but what is even more true, is this, the people who want to be decent, do go to church. I always think more kindly of the person who goes to church. LET US ALL GO TO CHURCH—TOMORROW.

Leadership Training School Will Be Discontinued If Enrollment Falls Below 100

Registrar Makes Announcement of Plans; Classes Scheduled To Start Feb. 14; Decision Will Be Made at Meeting Sunday

Unless a paid enrollment of 100 is reached before Feb. 14, the date set by the Marion County Council of Religious Education for the re-opening of the Leadership Training School here, the school will be discontinued, according to announcement made by Mrs. Roy W. Kauble, secretary of the Marion County Council and registrar of the school, today.

The school was scheduled to open here the week of Dec. 6 with a membership of 43, but was postponed until Feb. 14 due to the demands of the many civic enterprises of the holiday season.

To Meet Sunday
E. E. Barnhart of Columbus, who is associated with the State Council of Religious Education, will speak at a meeting to be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the United Brethren Church, at which time members of the Marion County Council of Religious Education, headed by J. H. Prettyman, will be present and hope to arrive at a decision regarding the advisability of attempting to continue the school.

A membership of 100 will be required, regardless of the decision of the council, in order to support the school, financially. If continued, the school will be held at the Presbyterian Church probably the week of Feb. 14 and with a carefully-selected group of teachers in charge.

Red Network of Stations Welds Radio Fans All Over Country Into One Audience

With Addition of Louisville, Nashville, Atlanta and Memphis, Chain Now Includes 25 Distinct Units; Circuits Cover Some 5,000 Miles

The "Red Network," the largest chain of broadcasting stations ever operated on a regular schedule, now welds together a large part of the radio listeners of the eastern half of the United States into one vast audience bounded on north and east by hearers of WCHL in Portland, Me., on the south by listeners to WSL in Atlanta, and on the west by hearers of WDAF in Kansas City.

With the addition of four Southern stations—WAB, Atlanta; WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville and WMG, Memphis—the Red Network consists of 25 stations which are regularly linked together for scheduled weekly broadcasts originating in the studios of WDAF in New York City or at outside pickup points.

WEAF Key Station
Using WEAF as the "key" station and employing circuits covering some 5,000 miles, weekly program features are now being supplied to WTIC, Hartford; WJAB, Providence; WEEI, Boston; WCTZ, Portland, Me.; WTAG, Worcester, Mass.; WGY, Schenectady; WGR, Buffalo; WJLT and WFL, Philadelphia; WRG, Washington; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WSM, Cincinnati; WTAM, Cleveland; WWS, Detroit; WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville; WSL, Atlanta; WWS, Memphis; WGN and WLS, Chicago; WOC, Des Moines; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; KSD, St. Louis and WDAF, Kansas City.

The hook-up of this number of broadcasting stations by telephone circuits is a problem which involves more than 200 operators, including specialists in telephone, telegraph and radio communication. Even after the entire circuit is connected and tested to see that it is functioning perfectly, constant listening is necessary all along the line to insure that no trouble occurs which would mar the effectiveness of the broadcast.

Start From Studio
Starting from the studio of WEAF, the first circuit is to the Bell System Building at 21 Wall Street, New York City, at the same time that they are also sent by wire to 400 West-st. where they are radiated from WEAF's antenna. From this point, the Walker Street Building is the nucleus of the huge network.

Stations located in New England are fed through two main telephone circuits from Walker-st. One of these carries the program at Hartford, Conn., where a tap emanates to station WTIC, another to station WJAB at Providence, and a third to Worcester, where WTAG is located. The circuit also continues on from Hartford to Boston, where it feeds the transmitter of WEEI. A tap from Boston carries the music and speech to Portland, Me., where it is broadcast by WCTZ.

Direct Reception
Stations WGY in Schenectady and WJLT in Buffalo receive the program by individual circuits direct from Walker-st.—the one feeding the latter station traveling by way of Scranton, Pa., and Elmira, N. Y.

Another circuit from Walker-st. supplies the two Philadelphia broadcasters, WLIT and WFL, via Newtown Square, Pa., and the circuit continues on from this point to Washington, where it feeds station WRC.

Western and Southern stations are connected into the Red Network by means of a circuit running from Walker-st. to Brushy Fork, where a tap supplies KDKA in Pittsburgh, and then on to Beaver Dam, O., located about 10 miles from Lima. From Beaver Dam, a circuit running north to Detroit via Maumee, supplies station WJL, located at Maumee beach in Cleveland and feeds the transmitter of WTAM.

Circuit South
A circuit which meets the Network at Beaver Dam runs south and connects into the chain WSAI in Cincinnati, WHAS in Louisville, WSM in Nashville, WMC in Memphis and WSB in Atlanta. Another circuit running west from Beaver Dam comes into Morrell Park, Ill., from which point KWW's transmitter is supplied. Three other circuits also emanate from Morrell Park, one running to station WCCO at Minneapolis-St. Paul, another to WOC at Des Moines, and the third to KSD in St. Louis and on to Kansas City, where it feeds WDAF.

At junction points where two or more circuits join and at other points along the line vacuum tube repeaters are used to amplify the signals traveling over the circuits, in order to make sure that practically the same signal strength is delivered to each of the stations which are broadcasting the program.

In addition to the special telephone circuits on which the program is carried, another circuit paralleling the first is used to keep all stations in the chain in constant communication with each other by telegraph. In this manner, the condition of the various circuits is checked at regular intervals to make sure that every word and note of the program which is originating at WEAF is reaching all of the stations in the chain with good volume and without extraneous noise.

RADIO BILL WILL BE GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY

Legislators To Take Chances on Losing Measure in Late Jan

Washington, Jan. 29.—Taking chances of radio control legislation being lost in a last-minute congressional jam, house leaders today gave the White-Hill compromise the right of way, with the expectation that a measure will be passed before signs are sent to the senate.

Determination of congress to pass the country-wide demand for legislation was expected to overcome a stubborn opposition in the house led by Representative Davis, Democrat of Tennessee, a member of the conference committee.

The bill contains a "hook" in its abandonment of the principle that people own the air. Davis asserted, "The heart of this legislation has been cut out." Davis declared that the compromise bill favors neither side, also strikes out a provision of an original house bill which said that consideration should be given to the right of each state to one broadcast station.

Little opposition has appeared to authority to be vested in Secretary of Commerce Hoover. Under the measure, the vital questions created by the bill will be decided by a commission while the commerce department will administer the act.

It is now all proper to say that the local

the dozen.

Aha! We have it at last! That Mountain volume of whitewash he can lay on.

While the Mexican situation is of interest to all of us, of course, the possibility of a war with Mexico would never stir a lot of people up as would the possibility of any trouble with Cuba likely to bar them from her shores. As the man from Wellville used to say: "There's a reason!"

Theoretically, we true aristocrats of the land have the right-of-way, and there is no earthly reason why we can not really enjoy it—if we have the patience to wait for all the cars in sight to pass.

There may have been a bit of crookedness in that chess contest, as intimated, but it's going to take quite a while to convince us that the regulation, every-day, no-called sports utilized it for the purpose of working "the books" and making a killing.

We do not question "Peaches" Browning's statement that she is a good girl. Still, were the picking left to us, we would hardly select her to teach a Sunday-school class of young and unsophisticated girls—if there are any such despite the tabloids, the magazines and the movies.

Influenza caused the deaths of 667 residents of Great Britain last week which demonstrates the wisdom of our health officials in doing their utmost to prevent the spreading of the disease over here. "This country could not forgive itself for another such scourge as that of 1918 if there is any way known to humanity by which to prevent it."

We do not blame those Illinois club women over in Springfield for manifesting incredulity when a Chicago woman lecturer told them that women do not know how to fight until they are sixty. Naturally, it set them wondering what they had been doing all these years.

If there is anything in the statements of their attorneys, that both the Brownings seek a separation for all time, it's the Christian duty of that court to get a hustle on itself and give them all the time possible to remain a part.
The duty, of course, is that which the court
owes the public.

British Under Secretary of State Arthur Ponsonby told a recent gathering of women pacifists in New York City that the former kaiser of Germany never made the reported reference to Britain's "contemptible little army," that that remark was a bit of propaganda to hurry enlistments. We have been told that "truth will prevail," but sometimes it takes an awfully long time to do it.

Duty to Ourselves and Loved Ones.

Dr. William H. Welch, director of the Johns Hopkins school of hygiene, says that, were all of us to live as we should, we could almost double the average expectancy of life. The trouble, he says, is that we simply will not do it. We neglect our little bodily ills and famine that we are none the worse when they have disappeared, but in this we are wrong.
Each one of them, he says, has left its mark upon us.

Men and women lived an average of only twenty-three years back in the time when Egypt was ruled by the Pharaohs, and the average is yet nearer twenty years in some parts of India today. In America the average life expectancy is now fifty-six years, which is eighteen years in excess of what it was in the days of the grandfathers of those of us who are in middle life or beyond. By adding to our knowledge of health preservation, it is the hope of the American Public Health association to extend the average span of life by thirty years in the next half century. Speaking of this hope in a recent interview, Dr. Welch said:

"If we would devote ourselves to learning the rules of health and applying them at the first signs of bodily disorder as assiduously as we apply ourselves to removing a rattle in our automobile engines, we could live to be a hundred and extend our period of usefulness correspondingly."

The trouble is that we do not. We are prone to look upon any little indication of illness as commonplace and trifling and wait till the realization that we are really ill is forced upon us before seeking the aid and advice of a physician. In other words, we permit ourselves to become ill and then seek the services of a doctor to restore us to health instead of employing the knowledge of a doctor to keep us from becoming ill.

It's a duty which all of us owe ourselves and our loved ones to undergo at regular intervals, three or four times a year, careful examination by a competent physician, that we may know of any and all physical dangers menacing us and take steps, should any threaten, to overcome and dissipate them.

Static As a Barometer.

While static yet remains an elusive mystery of radio, the electrical engineers and scientists have discovered that it can be photographed, and they now appreciate the fact that the great mischievous worker of the atmosphere has absolute merit as an accurate forecaster of great storms.

This was demonstrated during what is now known and referred to by them as the Nassau hurricane which created such awful havoc in Florida. The electrical experts at the United States ship, Kiltory, which is a floating radio laboratory cruising between Norfolk and the various naval radio stations in the West Indies, observed the storm throughout and their photographic records of it tell the story of its violence.

The Kiltory, at the time of the development of the hurricane, was in Crooked Island passage, and while they could not tell what was going on—what damage was being done—they were able to follow its course throughout until it wore itself out and was dissipated by the storm automatically registered by the static on their receiving cylinders. Ordinarily the record made by radio consists of dots and dashes with an occasional long line very similar, when greatly magnified, to the old-time tape records which used to be made in telegraphy. But during periods of storm these marks are heavier and come closer together, and in times of mighty storms such as that which swept Florida the dots and dashes are so heavy and so closely marked as to make almost continuous heavy black lines. Where the photographic record of ordinary static leaves the print almost white, the record of the Florida storm made a print which was far nearer black than white, so intense was the static.

Describing the experience of those aboard the Kiltory during the Florida storm, the report says:

"Compass bearings of maximum static were frequently in the general direction of this hurricane as it proceeded to the westward, except when the strong local disturbances affected them somewhat. The first indications of the far-away storm were detected by the group of observers on the Kiltory were registered when the storm center was yet more than 1,000 miles away. It was two and a half days before the storm actually came within the area of the surface weather map used on the vessel."

"From that time on, however, the radio compass pointed with increasing accuracy toward the center of the hurricane, until, as it passed over Santo Domingo, several operators were able to get fairly accurate data on the maximum static. The Kiltory was at the time moored in Port-au-Prince."

Long before a radio compass and the weather map installation now used aboard all our naval vessels were placed aboard the Kiltory, her radio operators were recognized as fine storm prognosticators. As a matter of fact, this ability of radio operators to forecast the weather was what caused the Kiltory to be thus equipped, as radio operators aboard ships have for several years been looked upon as splendid weather prophets, who were able to tell of the approach of storms, especially of electrical storms, with marked accuracy. It has been explained that the intensity of the static signals give an accurate indication of the electricity in the air and if the observing operator has had experience in gauging it he can tell within half an hour or less when an approaching storm will be overhead.

First we had radio telegraphy. Then came the radio phone. Soon maps were being made and pictures sent by radio. And now the radio is being used as a barometer to locate and forecast the coming of storms. The marvels of the radio are many, but it is possible that we have at this time an indifferent conception of them. No one knows what discoveries are at hand, but those who have given the closest study to the subject are almost as yet in its infancy. The wonders of radio which have been revealed to us are so many and so great that those who know most about them are most of all disinclined to place a limit on the possible wonders its study may develop.

Can it be that some practical joker has tossed Senator Tom Heflin, of Alabama, into the fool notion that he's an orator?

We see that France is taking steps to prevent the sale of champagne to foreigners, so we suppose we may just as well abandon our plan to purchase a historic castle or two over there and spend our money here at home.

A close study of the situation tends to lead one to the view that continued discussion of the recent baseball charges will be just about as pleasing to the ball owners, all and several,
as the loss of a leg.

Canadian authorities poured 50,000 gallons of alcohol into the sewers of Regina, one day this week, because nobody was willing to pay $10 a gallon for it. It makes one wonder what can be in the stuff of the bootleggers, when they are not willing to pay $10 a gallon for something they can sell at $16 a quart.

If that Kansas legislator will except from the action of his proposed bill to stop the manufacture, sale, possession or ownership of mince pies the kind grandmother used to bake we don't know but what it would prove a blessing to the people of his state to have the bill become a law. The most of the mince pies of today are criminal in the highest degree.

It's hardly probable that the granting of an injunction to Charlie Chaplin restraining his wife from collecting $14,000 alimony and attorney's fees will cause any general anguish throughout the land. By this time the public seems to have a pretty fair line on film's golddigging tendencies.

The president's address to the house of representatives, in commemoration of Washington's birthday, is to be broadcasted, unless, of course, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America gets the notion that commemorating a birthday of a military leader would prove a menace to the peace of the world, and have him enjoined.

Food Combinations for Babies.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

I need not tell you the growing child needs milk.
Every parent knows this. But it is not at all uncommon to find a child who refuses milk. He just won't take it. Then what?

There are few children who can offer the excuse that milk does not agree. You won't meet one a month with that unpleasant peculiarity. But the when, or whatever you may call it, exists and it must be recognized.

Here is a chance for the mother to practice strategy. She must make a flank attack and outwit the stubborn appetite.

The milk can be included in certain dishes which even a little child will relish. There are lots of soups which will be much enriched and improved by adding milk.

Almost every child has a favorite vegetable. This should be made the basis of the soup, combining the vegetable with milk. It will be a rare youngster, indeed, who will refuse this dish.

Of course, while milk is desirable, but if there are seasons when this can not be used, then milk will supply the fine and protein elements so essential to health. But if sacrifices must be made in the home it is far better to economize in almost everything else. Milk is the most precious of foods and every child should have at least a quart a day.

It is because I recognize the importance of giving this quantity of milk that I speak of these combinations. They will suggest to the mother other dishes to which milk can be added.

I venture to give a lot more advice right here, because I want every mother to appreciate the necessity of the milk. It just must be given.

Chop very finely the vegetables which are to be the basis of the soup. Add the least possible quantity of water and cook no longer than necessary to make the vegetables tender. Then the milk and a little butter are added. A teaspoonful of flour will thicken the soup. Brief heating will bring the mixture to the desired temperature.

This makes a cup of soup, rich in all the things needed for growth and vigor. It can be made of almost any one of the vegetables found in the market, and since there are so many there need be no monotony in the child's meals.

When the child is older fish chowder can be made,
having in mind that the milk is the important part of the combination. The great pains must be taken to remove every fish bone. Young children don't handle such things well.

Dried beef and squares of potatoes may be used with the milk instead of fish. Any acceptable combination of this sort will help you to give the child the necessary milk.

Bear in mind that your aim is to get your little child to take a quart a day. Help to make this possible by combining milk with other foods if he won't drink the vital fluid.

Today's Worst Story.
BY WILL ROGERS

You don't hear so much talk any more about what nationality you and your friends are.
Haven't you noticed it? Somehow, folks has kinda come around to the notion that maybe you're an American. Well, they see you living in America right along, you know, and talking American, and everything, and that way they get to thinking that it's no great matter whether your grandfather was a Lancaster or a Pole. But I heard a queer way of testing out people's blood without sticking a pin into their arm, the other day.

A lady said she couldn't always tell exactly what kind of ancestors her hostess had, unless it was at tea. And then she could sometimes tell, but not always. She says that when the tea comes to her, and everybody starts to drinking it, she just mentions to the hostess that it isn't so sweet as you like it.

If the hostess says: "All right, here's the sugar-bowl," she suspects the lady is Irish, even if her name is Dugan and accented on the last syllable.

But if the hostess says: "Ah, very true!
Just pass me your cup, please," she is morally certain the dame's grandfather was an Englishman.

Once, though, she said she was so sure she couldn't be mistaken. When she pulled the sugar-bowl, the hostess was not being quite so sweet. The hostess was Scotch. She said:
"Are you sure you stirred it up enough?"—

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Robert E. Lee, writing to his son, said "duty is the sublime word in the English language."
And yet, sublime things are thought to be beautiful, and duty is not always beautiful.
If what is obviously our duty seems hard and merely drudgery, it is because we lack imagination. We can not see the content and the satisfaction at the end of the road toward which duty leads. The lack of loving our duty is often, then, just lack of imagination and foresight.

Somebody has said that mud from a volcano in Utah, mixed in a Fifth Avenue beauty shop and packed in a Paris jar is worth five dollars an ounce. At least it is sold for that.
But there is a better way to beauty—or will be when spring comes. It will come through the soil, though it will not be the mud of a volcano in Utah. It will come from digging in your garden, whereby you may get roses in your cheeks as well as roses on your table.

Alexander Hamilton, for all his great wisdom, may have given doubtful advice to his son in a letter written when the boy was a student at Columbia in 1801. The boy had been asked to "speak a piece" and appeared to his father for help. Alexander Hamilton, only a few days before his fatal duel with Aaron Burr, sent the lad a manuscript with this letter: "My dear James:—I have prepared for you a thesis on discretion. You may need it. God bless you. Your affectionate father—A. H."

After all, it is doubtful if discretion is really a great quality. It behooves us to have a certain amount of it. Without discretion we shall doubtless do many foolish things. But it is timidity and lack of self-assurance that stand in the way of achievement more often than the lack of discretion.

Emerson said there come times with all of us when we must let out all the reins. We must to the whole way. Without that abandonment to a purpose—at the right time—there is no success.

The domestic relations officer of the big city of Yonkers, New York, recently brought his 5,000th case into court. He knows something about domestic troubles. Drink, money matters, affluence and dress may stir up trouble, but it is the plain existence of the human species that puts on the cutting edge. In brief, he says bad temper comes first as the cause of family rows.

Give yourself the once-over on that basis.

Vagrant Verse.

SKATING.

The riding moon bathes hills and trees
In silver light;
And in their midst the lake reflects,
A jeweled sight.

Hand in hand we fill around,
Just you and I,
Wrapt in beauty, wrapt in sound,
Minutes fly.

If life were but a silver pond,
Bathed in light,
And joys were just as manifold
As stars of night—

Would life be full without a sacrifice,
Without a pain,
With naught to suffer for loved ones,
But all to gain?

Well, then, let clouds obscure the moon,
Starlight be dim,
Your loving arm protects me well
As on my skin.

Extensive Remodeling at Anthony Laundry Finished; Improvements Cost $10,000

Company Installs New Equipment To Make Plant One of Best in Ohio; Machinery Rearranged To Obtain
Maximum Efficiency

Extensive remodeling work, including the installation of new equipment and involving an expenditure of approximately $10,000, was completed this week at the plant of the Anthony Laundry Co., 104-106 E. Center-st., E. Schenault, treasurer and general manager of the company, announced today.

As a result of these improvements, the Anthony company, long recognized as one of the best equipped laundry and dry cleaning concerns in Ohio among cities the size of Marion, is provided with a plant in which absolutely no detail essential for thoroughly efficient laundry service is lacking.

New Equipment

Included in the remodeling program is a new heating device for the company's large water softening plant, complete electrical power for all of the numerous machines used in the laundry and dry cleaning departments, a new and larger marking room in which the vast number of articles handled by the company are separated and classified so that none will go astray. Installation of a "third extractor," a device which performs the same service that fingers perform in the home laundry, construction and equipment of a new room in which all of the laundered goods thoroughly dried, and a device of the latest type for drying rugs and carpets handled by the dry cleaning department.

Plant Redecorated

In addition to the purchase and installation of this new equipment, the company has redecorated its plant throughout, all of the walls being painted white, which contributes greatly to the excellent lighting facilities. Practically no artificial illumination is required during most of the day.

There is virtually no branch of laundry work that the Anthony company is not equipped to handle. Its service ranges from handkerchiefs to carpets and rugs, making it possible for Marion housewives to escape all washing, ironing and house-cleaning tasks if they wish to do so.

Women Enjoy Service

Marion women are taking full advantage of this service, the management of the Anthony company states. The family wash service, started a number of years ago here and in other cities throughout the country, is increasing rapidly until now it is one of the most important functions of the local plant.

Modern equipment has completely eliminated conditions which caused housewives to hesitate about sending linens, wearing apparel and other articles to the laundry. There was a time when a few trips to the laundry meant either serious damage or practically virtual destruction of textiles that were not made to withstand strenuous treatment. If this damage did not occur, goods frequently came back to the home badly discolored from bleaching chemicals placed in the water.

Trouble Removed

All danger of trouble of this kind is entirely a thing of the past, the laundry heads state. At the Anthony laundry, for instance, absolutely no known as "extractors," which prepare the goods for drying, by "drawing out" the water by centrifugal action.

From the extractors, the laundered articles go to the dry room, where they are thoroughly dried by operation of a tumbler system and are then sent to the ironing department, equipped with a battery of modern electrical ironers.

New Drying Plant

One of the most important additions to the equipment is a drying plant for the rug and carpet department. With this new device in operation, floor coverings sent to the Anthony Co. can be dried in five hours. Formerly several days were required for this service.

The Anthony Laundry, started about 35 years ago by J. C. Anthony, one of Ohio's pioneers in this business, has grown to be one of Marion's most substantial industrial concerns. It has 50 employees on its payroll and operates a fleet of six delivery trucks.

When the business was started by Mr. Anthony and for several years thereafter, there were only two or three employees and one delivery, who covered the city on foot.

Business Grows

The business grew and developed with the city and operations increased with especial rapidity during the last 10 years. Several years ago the business was bought by a new company headed by Mr. Schenault and Ray Greer, the latter a laundry operator of 25 years experience. Mr. Greer is president of the company.

The main laundry plant and offices are in a room measuring 40 by 300 feet in which machinery has been arranged so that the work can be handled with the greatest possible speed and dispatch. The location of some of the equipment was changed during the recent remodeling in order to increase the plant's efficiency.

Merged Plants

The dry cleaning department, in which all carpets and rugs are handled, is located in a three-story brick building at the rear of the plant. This was formerly the plant of the Model Laundry, a business owned and managed by Mr. Greer which was merged with the Anthony Co. when the new organization was formed several years ago.

In the basement of the main laundry room is the company's immense water softening plant and on the second floor is a restaurant, with rest rooms in connection, operated for the convenience of the employees. The restaurant is completely provided with modern equipment and serves meals to practically all of the employees at a nominal cost.

Called to Marion

Miss Helen Dolson, Huntington, Ind., graduate nurse, has been called to Marion on account of the serious illness of her aunt, Mrs. R. O. Dolson, Hotel Fontaineau. Mrs. Dolson is reported to be improving.

OPPOSITION TO DEMPSEY BILL IS VOICED HERE

Marion County School Supervisors Hold Meeting in Courthouse This Morning

Opposition to the Dempsey bill, now before the state legislature, which would create a college entrance board which would control entrance examinations for graduates of secondary schools in the state was voiced this morning in a resolution passed by the supervisors of Marion County Schools. The resolution takes a stand in the colleges and expresses the opinion of the heads of the county school system that the move to have an entrance examination board set up standards for entrance to state higher educational institutions is "undemocratic and un-American."

Meet With Hayburn
The meeting of the supervisors, which held this morning at the office of Supr. C. B. Hayburn. Copies of the resolution are to be sent to the State Department of Education, and to Representative H. B. Hill, of Marion, member of the state legislature.

The step to create a college entrance board would throw the schools back twelve or more years, the supervisors state. They also believe that all educational policies of the state should be made by the state legislature.

The points brought up by the supervisors and included in the resolution, in opposition to the Dempsey bill, are: "It is detrimental to the existing educational system of the state in that it removes this phase of education from the direction of the State Department of Education."

"It would tend to narrow our present curriculum to the detriment of Vocational Education."

"It would tend to create a 'Mental Aristocracy' hence it is undemocratic and un-American."

"It would tend to create an 'Inferiority Complex' in the minds of those forced to be examined, thus evidencing an inferior psychology."

"It would place the College Entrance Board in the position of 'Director' of our Secondary School System and we feel that our Colleges have and should have the right to be qualified to fill that position."

"It would be returning to our position of twelve or more years ago."

ONE KILLED, 11 HURT
IN TRIPLE COLLISION

Bus and Two Trucks in Crash Near New Haven; Injured in Hospitals

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 20—Joseph D. Cunniffe, of South Boston, was instantly killed, and 11 other persons, seven men and four women, were injured in a triple collision between a bus bound from Boston to New York, and two trucks on the Boston Post-rod in West Haven today.

Some of the injured, now under treatment in local hospitals, are reported in critical condition.

The accident occurred on the highway bridge spanning the New Haven Railroad here, about five miles west of the center of New Haven. An ice cap in the center of the bridge caused the bus to slide against a truck which was passing, and before the driver could straighten out, another truck crashed into the bus.

The three cars were jammed against the bridge abutments, forming a dam across the road and landlocking trucks.

British and German World War Veterans Become Best of Friends at Mt. Gilead

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 20—Two men, one a citizen of Great Britain, and one of Germany, both of whom served their countries in the World War, met in Mt. Gilead, and have developed a friendship that amply illustrates that national hatreds faded and developed during war, do not extend down to the citizens, and at least are soon forgotten.

Andrew Fraser, of the firm of Russek, Fraser Co. of England has been spending some time in Mt. Gilead in the interest of his firm in experimental molding of a new powdered material produced by a patented process. There are being secreted in an automatic hydraulic lathe molding press which has been patented recently by the Hydraulic Press Manufacturing Co. It was stated that the tests have been successful and one of the presses will be shipped to England at once.

STEEL PRICES LOW
Returns on Industry's Investment Only One Per Cent, Says Schwab

New York, Jan. 20—The American steel industry has an investment of approximately $5,000,000,000 and the industry as a whole is earning no more than five per cent on this investment, stated Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, before a hearing for Europe today on the S. S. Majestic.

Mr. Schwab expressed the belief that the prices for manufactured steel are too low and do not give steel manufacturers ample return for their program of expansion and production. He urged a curtailment of steel producing facilities as "the only remedy" for the low return on money invested in the steel business.

J. W. SMITH IS NAMED TRUSTEE BOARD MEMBER

Big Island Township Man Selected Successor to W. H. Morral

J. W. Smith, well known resident of Big Island Township, was chosen this morning by County Commissioners as a member of the board of trustees of the Marion County Children's Home. He will take the place left vacant by resignation recently of W. H. Morral.

Smith is named as a democratic member of the board of trustees. This is the first time party designation has been used in the records of the commissioners on the home board, the law merely stating that the board consist of two members of each of the dominant parties. Another democratic will probably be appointed to the board if the resignation of Michael Wardell is tendered to the commissioners.

This will balance the board, with two republicans and two democrats.

Mr. Smith has taken an active interest in the children's home for some time, and is also active in other county affairs. Several years ago he was in financial director, and is now a director of the Marion County Agricultural Society.

The next meeting of the Board of Trustees is on Feb. 1, the regular monthly session of the group. The examination for a new superintendent and nation of the home is to be held here on Feb. 2, and it is expected that the trustees will hold another meeting to pick a successor to Carl Digel, present superintendent, as soon as the list of eligibles is certified by the civil service commission.

The engines will be smaller than those ordinarily in use but will develop a maximum of 42 knots an hour and will average 38 knots an hour, permitting a crossing from Naples to New York in four days.

Special day decks for the ships will be built at Genoa and Trieste.

HILL LOOKS FOR OPPOSITION TO SUNDAY BILL

Measure Banning Sunday Amusements To Come Up in Committee Next Week

Although firmly of the belief that the bill which he introduced in the state legislature this week to prohibit all Sunday amusements such as dancing and roller skating should be enacted in a law, H. B. Hill, representative from Marion County, is not predicting that a majority of his colleagues will agree with him with the measure when it comes up for a vote.

"Sentiment in favor of a law of this kind is strong throughout Ohio," Mr. Hill stated today while here during the legislature's week end recess. "The proposal has plenty of opposition, however, and I anticipate that it will stir up a warm fight."

It will be impossible to gain any thing like a definite idea of how the legislature will be lined up on the measure until it comes up for action, Mr. Hill says. If there is no chance for the proposal to get serious consideration, this will become known when it is taken up in committee proceedings.

The bill is now in the hands of the house reference committee and is expected to be turned over to another committee for consideration next Tuesday.

Mr. Hill says that while the proposal represents his personal views regarding Sunday amusements, he filed the bill as the result of requests received from persons in various parts of the state.

G. O. P. Leader in House Sees Parties as Much Alike

Bigger the Man, the Reader He Is To Tell What He Really Thinks

By CHARLES F. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The bigger the man, the reader he is to tell right out, what he really thinks, without any qualifications to the effect that he might be quoted.

JOHN Q. TILSON

That's been my experience. Take a small calling, for instance. He hardly feels that he can walk on the same side of the street with another congressman, if one happens to be a Republican and the other a Democrat.

But how about the difference between a Republican and a Democrat? "What's the difference, anyway, these things between a Republican and a Democrat?" the colonel asks. "There isn't much difference."

On second thought the colonel still tries to draw some little distinction along tariff lines, but he didn't do it with any enthusiasm. He had to admit there are a good many protectionistic Democrats and tariff reduction Republicans.

At the same time, the colonel said, he believes in a two party government, if they're only the "ins" and "outs." The "ins" are in and they're responsible and they have to try to do a good job in order to stay in. The "outs" function is to keep the "ins" up to snuff by everlastingly trying to break in, and thus becoming "ins," while transforming the erstwhile "ins" into "outs."

TILSON isn't altogether prepared to agree to a realignment of the parties as conservatives and liberals. Political groups don't classify that way, he says.

"If a man's wisely 'conservative,' he explains, 'the other fellow's a red radical. If he's an enlightened liberal, the other fellow's a hidebound reactionary.' There's no such thing as a liberal to a conservative; no such thing as a conservative to a liberal."

BORN in Tennessee, Colonel Tilson is a typical New Englander. Since he went to Yale—he worked his own way through, including the law school—always has lived in the Nutmeg State.

He has the tall, spare, big-boned New England frame, the stubby white mustache of the elderly New Englander and the crisp efficiency of New England in his manner. If he ever had a southern drawl, it's worn off from him completely.

(Finis J. Garrett, the Democratic leader in congress also is a Tennessean, but that's only coincidence.)

COLONEL TILSON'S a real soldier. He was in the Spanish War, the 2nd Connecticut Infantry and served on

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation to each and every one who so kindly assisted us at the time of our recent sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Francis and sons Kelley and Richard. Adv. J. p.

The Mexican border—altogether nearly 20 years of it.

He's been in congress 16 years. He has three separate offices scattered around the Capitol Building. Besides the floor of the house of representatives, you're likely to meet him anywhere, but you need a Capitol guide to keep track of him, he's likely to be in so many different places.

An majority leader he's a stern disciplinarian, but a lamb hasn't anything on him for mildness when he's off duty. They say he's closer to President Coolidge than any other member of congress, and yet he doesn't always vote for the president's policies. For instance, the president turned thumbs down on three new cruisers recently, but Tilson cast his ballot for money to start building 'em and even made a speech about it.

"I'm long past the point where I care a cent for office," the colonel told me. "My sole object in coming to congress now is service."

SELF-CONFESSED SLAYER IS NEAR COLLAPSE

Faints in Arms of Officers as Scene of Murder is Visited

Platteville, Wis., Jan. 20.—Although verging on a complete physical collapse, William N. Coffey, former Bible school student, self-confessed bigamist and slayer of his bride, Mrs. Hattie Hales, for the first time since his apprehension, began today to desperately fight to save himself from the hangman's noose of the state of Iowa.

Collect Evidence

Despite Coffey's confessions, the officials have been forced to secure evidence of the chain of evidence needed to bring the slayer to trial on the charge of murder. Today, however, Coffey slipped into the principal role of the tragedy and asked officials to accompany him to the tourist camp where he declared he murdered his bride with a baseball bat.

First evidence of Coffey's breakdown occurred as the party of officials was starting for Bratton woods in search of the missing pieces of the slain woman's body.

Helps in Hunt

Just as he declared, "I can't go much farther," he faltered and fell into the arms of accompanying deputy sheriffs. He was revived and for two hours he participated in the gruesome task of finding and removing the dismembered head of his victim from the frozen ground. All but one of the missing parts of Mrs. Hales' body have been dug up from a clearing in the woods. The missing part is the right hand.

FAMOUS CANINE MOVIE STAR ON OAKLAND BILL

"Alexander the Great," dog movie star gave an unusual demonstration at the Oakland Theatre last night of how motion pictures are made and how a wire dog acts under fire. "Alexander" cleverly demonstrated how the throat attack is made, how a war dog acts on the field of battle and how a signal is given when he spies an enemy plane. Many other stunts were performed, such as going to the front of the theater for a newspaper and getting writing paper and an envelope out of a desk drawer. Tonight will be his last night in Marion, as he is going to the coast to fill an engagement there.

SIX-HOUR DAY, FIVE-DAY WEEK TO BE SOUGHT

Demands Will Be Made at Miner Conference With Operators Feb. 14

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 20.—The six-hour day and five-day week and a joint operator-miner clinic to look into the ills of the bituminous coal industry, probably will be proposed by the United Mine Workers of America at the conference with the coal operators at Miami, Fla., on Feb. 14.

These demands were expected to grow out of the deliberations of the miners' wage scale committee. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and former mine workers' secretary-treasurer, said today.

Describing the bituminous coal industry in such non-union fields as West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Maryland and others as "utterly demoralized" because of "over-production" by some fields and "cut throat underbidding" between rival operators, Green said that the remedy lay in reorganization of the industry which would equalize production.

"The miners are ready to join in an intelligent effort to analyze the ills of the industry and make recommendations for a cure," Green said. "Both miners and operators have suffered from the chaos. The miners have been impoverished. The coal operators have been losing money. Unless a new basic policy is adopted immediately, the whole bituminous industry is facing ruin."

President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers maintained silence when questioned about the probable recommendations of the wage scale committee.

CAUTIOUS AUTO THIEVES SUPPLY CAR WITH TAGS

Transfer License from One Car to Another in Marion Garage

Marion automobile thieves take no chances on being arrested for violating the law requiring all cars to display state license plates.

This is indicated in a report on file at police headquarters today, telling of the theft of a car last night from the garage of J. S. Taylor, 304 Locust. The stolen machine, belonging to Stephen Powell, 186 Sharpst, had no license plates attached but the thief remedied the situation by supplying it with plates taken from another car stored in the same garage. The machine from which the plates were taken is owned by Harley Twigg, a leader.

The Powell car is a 1922 Ford coupe. Police have notified authorities in nearby cities to help in the search for the stolen machine.

NEW AIR MAIL POSTAGE RATE IS ANNOUNCED

Revised Schedule Will Go Into Effect Feb. 1; Does Away With Zoning

Attention is called by local postal officials to the new rate of postage on air mail which becomes effective Feb. 1, 1934. The rate will be 10 cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof on mail carried by airplane on either government-operated or contract routes, or on both, regardless of the distance. Such postage includes the transportation of the mail to and from air mail routes.

This rate does away with the existing practice of "zoning" air mail matter over the transcontinental and overnight routes and also the different rates applying to contract air mail routes.

Special airplane stamps issued for the payment of postage on air mail or ordinary stamps may be used. All mail intended to be carried by airplane should be plainly marked in the space below the stamps and above the address "Via air mail." Envelopes of distinctive design approved by the department for air mail may be used for such purposes only. Postage on all air mail should be fully prepaid in order to expedite its handling.

E. Church. Rev. James M. Fisher, pastor, officiating. Burial was made in Marion Cemetery. Pneumonia was given as the cause of the child's death.

FIGHT PENNSYLVANIANS FOR COMMISSION POST

Move Instigated by Rumor That Rep. H. W. Temple Is Prospect

Washington, Jan. 20.—A fight against confirmation of any Pennsylvania as a member of the interstate commerce commission was being organized today by Senators Goff, Republican, and Neely, Democrat, of West Virginia, following reliable reports that Representative Henry W. Temple, of Washington, Pa., was being considered for the post. The name of Temple was suggested by Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania. It was said, following the senate's rejection of Cyrus E. Woods, a Pennsylvanian, he might unconsciously favor his state in making rate decisions.

There were indications nevertheless that Temple would get the appointment and that if he does, he probably will be confirmed by the senate. Administration leaders, who "sounded out" the senate, reported that Temple would receive favorable consideration not only by regular Republicans but by Democratic leaders and U. S. insurgent bloc as well.

Temple, who has served seven times in the house, was formerly a Presbyterian minister and also a professor of economics at Washington and Jefferson University. He has written several books on political economy and is well known as an economist. If named to the commission, it was said, the only opposition would come off the ground that as Pennsylvania's rejection of Woods, a Pennsylvanian, he might unconsciously favor his state in making rate decisions.

WEST VIRGINIA senators immediately opened fire on him in an effort to block his appointment, even though the White House announced that no successor to Woods had been chosen as yet.

Administration leaders, who "sounded out" the senate, reported that Temple would receive favorable consideration not only by regular Republicans but by Democratic leaders and U. ## Farther than ever beyond the reach of imitation

Every one knows that when announced a year ago, the Pontiac Six was an extraordinary automotive development. It represented the very best and finest that Oakland could create in a low-priced six, utilizing all the resources of General Motors.

The General Motors Research Staff pioneered Pontiac Six basic design. The great General Motors Proving Ground provided an unparalleled opportunity to perfect that design without regard to time or cost. Another great General Motors division—the Fisher Body Corporation—contributed bodies of unexampled beauty, comfort and strength and General Motors combined purchases.

Obviously, the Pontiac Six was then beyond duplication. For it was the product of three great interlocking organizations whose collective skill, facilities, and experience are nowhere else duplicated. Obviously, it is today still farther beyond the reach of imitation.

—because the Pontiac Six now carries this important additional attraction to buyers: In a period of more than a year, it has served tens of thousands of owners in performance, reliability and economical operation, to a degree of satisfaction far beyond their fondest expectations!

Pontiac Six, $825 to $975. Oakland Six, comparison to Pontiac Six, $1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Bodies by Fisher. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.
